

Do you like Clematis?

The International Clematis Society was founded in 1984 by Raymond Evison. Since then the Society has established itself as a platform for the exchange of knowledge, thoughts and plants and has created many friendships.

International conferences have been held in Estonia, Finland, Germany, Great Britain, Japan, USA and other countries.

Journal and Seed Exchange

The Journal of the Society is published during the first half of each year and contains articles and photos, both academic and practical. Newsletters and the website provide information of the Society's activities. With help of the Membership List one can find clematis friends nearby and worldwide.

The Seed Exchange enables you to grow your own plants, including many rare species. The language of the Society is English and all International Conferences are in English.

The Membership Fee per year is 30 €. You can pay using PayPal, an increasingly convenient method for many people. Please see our website for other ways to pay.
